The Praise That Comes From Thankful Norway People.

One kidney remedy has known merit.

Norway People rely upon it.

That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills.

Norway testimony proves it reliable.

W. O. Needham, retired farmer, Main St., Norway, Me., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are the only kidney medicine I use and they always give me relief."

Sometimes, when I caught cold my kidneys were weakened. Several years ago I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and I began using them. They got my kidneys working right, and when that was done the uric poison in my system was removed. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Stone's Drug Store, and I know that they can be relied on."

If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills the same that Mr. Needham had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Hour of Need.

Written for the Advertiser.

If ever I've stolen from the path of rectitude, and disobeyed Thy voice within, and dared Thy wrath and retribution, undimmed, Forsake me now, Lord, I implore.

When my transgressions most displeased Thee, then, all thou, I used Thee more than when I crouch on bended knees in penitence, bowed to the dust, And crave Thy sweet, forgiving touch. Thou who art merciful and just, I shall not need Thee then as much as when contented in my sins.

Forgetting Thee,—impotent, Dear Lord, my greatest need begins When worldly joys my soul content, If ever I forgot to pray I beg of Thee, do not depart.

Patience, a longer stay—Arouse my cold, sin-deadened heart. Be merciful as well as just. Thy wretched child do not forsake, But chasten me until I trust.

Even though my sinners' heart must break. GODA M. W. GREENLEAF

A Prize Letter.

Afraid She Can't Stand Her Husband Much Longer.

The American magazine has been offering prizes for the best letters in the contest entitled "What I Am Most Afraid Of."

The prize-winning letters are published in the March number. The following is an extract from a letter that won first prize:

"My husband is a man whom nothing suits; no matter how hard we try, how well we do anything, instead of praise some fault is always found, some defect pointed out, until all joy in accomplishment is lost. I have tried to be a true helpmate, to hold up my end and do my part in building of the home."

"My husband has a business paying sure but moderate dividends; plenty for us to live upon comfortably and lay aside something for the future, but we have always scrimped. I could never make the provisions last long enough, though not a scrap was wasted, and I always dreaded to tell him when anything was needed for the family. Often I have managed to earn a little money, and have bought extra provisions in order to escape the inevitable faultfinding attendant upon any request for household wants. I was saving and resourceful and would have been glad even to scrimp when necessary, if only a little appreciation had been accorded my efforts."

"At meals the principal topic of conversation was the high price of every article of food, until all comfort was gone and it would choke me, yet I tried to put a brave face upon the matter and as often as possible introduce some other subject."

"How the little ones and I would do the many chores about the house and make all bright and cheery, hoping to please 'Papa,' but he had always a grievance, was always faultfinding, and if he could be no possible complaint made about things at home, he would fret about business affairs, the weather, hard times, what it cost us to live on, and so on, until, instead of looking forward to the homecoming of the husband and father, we learned to dread it and watched his face anxiously, seldom finding anything written there but petulance and discontent."

"Yet he is what would be called a good husband, with good moral, temperate, just and honest in business dealings, yet sadly lacking in self control and feeling free to vent all his discontent upon his family, often by slamming of doors, and other childlike modes of expressing his anger. How could I urge self control upon my children when the simple announcement that the flour or sugar was out, would bring on such an exhibition of temper?"

"He was unwilling for me to take an active part in any church or charitable organization, begrudging the time given, and fearing some slight expense might be incurred."

"When I look forward to the time that my children will have gone out from the home for good, the dreadful fear that I will not be able to hold out, comes upon me; the fear that I shall be tempted to leave it all and go out from my home and make a place for myself where peace and quiet will be mine, is constantly before me—the fear that, after all these years of endurance I shall fail, and render of no avail the long struggle after right living, is What I Am Most Afraid Of."

Mr. Knowles of West Baldwin at the Methodist church at East Hiram. Mr. Merrill leaves a widow and two children.

A Prize Letter.

Afraid She Can't Stand Her Husband Much Longer.

The American magazine has been offering prizes for the best letters in the contest entitled "What I Am Most Afraid Of." The prize-winning letters are published in the March number.

The following is an extract from a letter that won first prize:

"My husband is a man whom nothing suits; no matter how hard we try, we will do anything. Instead of praising some fault is always found, some defect pointed out, until all joy in accomplishment is lost. I have tried to be a true helpmate, to hold up my end and do my part in building of the home."

"My husband has been anything but moderate dividends, plenty for us to live upon comfortably and lay aside something for the future, but we have always scrimped. I could never make the provisions last long enough, though not a scrap was wasted, and I always dreaded to tell him when a new dress was needed for the family. Often I have managed to earn a little money, and have bought extra provisions in order to escape the inevitable faultfinding attendant upon any request for household wants. I was saving and resourceful and would have been glad even to scrimp when necessary, if only a little appreciation had been accorded my efforts."

"At meals the principal topic of conversation was the high price of every article of food, until all comfort was gone and it would choke me, yet I tried to put a brave face upon the matter and as often as possible introduce some other subject."

"How the little ones and I would do the many chores about the house, make all bright and cheerful, hoping to please 'Papa,' but he had always a grievance, was always faultfinding, and if there could be no possible complaint made about things at home, he would fret and fuss about business affairs, the weather, hard times, what it cost us to live on, and so on, until, instead of looking forward to the homecoming of the husband and father, we learned to dread it and watched his face anxiously, seldom finding anything written there but petulance and discontent."

"Yet he is what would be called a good husband, with good moral, temperate, just and honest in business dealings, yet sadly lacking in self control and feeling free to vent all his discontent upon his family, often by slamming of doors, and other childlike modes of expressing his anger. How could I urge self control upon my children when the simple announcement that the flour or sugar was out, would bring on such an exhibition of temper?"

"He was unwilling for me to take an active part in any church or charitable organization, begrudging the time given, and feeling some slight expense might be incurred."

"When I look forward to the time that my children will have gone out from the home for good, the dreadful fear that I will not be able to hold out, comes upon me; the fear that I shall be tempted to leave it all and go out from my home and make a place for myself, where peace and quiet will be mine, is constantly before me—the fear that, after all these years of endurance I shall fail, and render of no avail the long struggle after right living, is What I Am Most Afraid Of."

MAKES BACKACHE QUICKLY DISAPPEAR

A Few Doses Relieves All Such
Miseries. Bladder Weakness,
Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism Promptly Vanish

It is no longer necessary for any one to suffer with backache, kidney trouble, have disagreeable bladder and urinary disorders to contend with, or be tortured with rheumatism, stiff joints, and its heart-wrenching pains, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely relieves all such troubles.

Croxone is the most wonderful remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such troubles. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else ever used for the purpose. It acts on the principle of cleaning out the poisons and removing the cause.

It soaks right in through the walls, membranes and linings, like water in a sponge, neutralizes, dissolves and makes the kidneys sit out and filter away, all the uric acid and poisons from the blood, and leaves the kidneys and urinary organs clean, strong, healthy and well.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what you have used, the very principle of Croxone is such, that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it.

If you suffer with pains in your back and sides, or have any signs of kidney, bladder troubles, or rheumatism, such as puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired, and run down, or bothered with urinary disorder, Croxone will quickly relieve you of your misery. You can secure an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.

Local Farmers and Farms.

Sketches Solicited.

One of the well known farms of Hebron is the home of C. W. Cummings and his father, D. F. Cummings, who are located about a mile beyond the Hebron Sanatorium on a slightly eminence. The place was carried on for many years by the senior Mr. Cummings who is still active for his years but more recently his son has been in the helm and is actively engaged in general farming and dairying. The buildings are large and commodious and include besides the barn a fine stable.

Five hundred barrels of Baldwin is not an unusual crop here and among the fruit trees is an orchard of a hundred that was set out by D. F. Cummings 27 years ago. There are now about 500 trees on the place and C. W. Cummings, who is a member of the Oxford Bear Association is increasing the number.

Holstein cattle are being bred here, fifteen animals of that breed now being on the farm. A fine yearling bull and a registered cow are among the lot. The product of the herd goes to the Turner Center Creamery Association.

The silo in the barn was one of the first constructed in that section, and while cutting ensilage soon after, he built it himself, Mr. Cummings, Sr., lost the greater part of his hand.

The windmill pump was into the building. Three horses are kept and a 1800 pound three year old colt promises to make a good one. An automobile affords much pleasure to the family and is used much in business.

FRYBURG.

Mrs. George Wescott has been a guest of friends in Jackson.

Mrs. D. R. Hastings and Alice Hastings have been spending a few days in Portland.

Mary Shean of Augusta has been the recent guest of Sarah Wozart at the Argue Not.

Mrs. J. E. Morrill has returned from New York, her son, Milton Morrill, accompanying her.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Tinker of Waterbury, Conn., have spent a few days at their summer home in Fryeburg.

A. Louise Bradford of Dorchester, Mass., has been the guest of her cousins, Mrs. J. W. Hubbard and Mrs. C. H. Harris.

Hon. A. A. Perry was a week-end guest in Boston and was one of the speakers at the Fryeburg Academy Alumni banquet.

Herbert Hanson has taken the contract to run the power station of the Fryeburg Electric Light Company at Swans Falls for a year.

NORTHEAST LOVELL.

George Whitehouse and wife remain much the same.

Blanche Russell, who is in the hospital at Portland, is gaining.

Mrs. Ralph Charles is working at Mrs. Frank Harmon's, at Lovell village.

Otis Andrews has returned home, after a long visit at Massachusetts.

Otis Gilman of the Center bought two good veal calves at Freeman Andrews', Thursday.

Farrington Rowe has rented the Waite homestead at the Center and will soon move there.

Charles Stanford has been painting and papering for Mrs. George Eastman, and it is one fine job and we think Charles has the trade learned very well.

Bert Brackett has the broval mother picked and wood in the shed at his mother's, Mrs. Freeman Andrews'. His brother, wife and sister helped him, and it surely made a full crew.

EAST HIRAM.

Saco river rose rapidly after the rain. About 30 new books have been added to the Congregational Sunday school.

Mrs. Battle Lombard was called to Baldwin by the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Elsie Jewell.

News has been received here of the death of Mrs. Caroline McLucas, widow of Royal McLucas, a veteran of the Civil War.

We have two doctors who have come here recently. Dr. Libby of Portland, boarding at E. B. Kimball's, and Dr. Staney in Clifton Evans' building, near the postoffice.

Funeral services for Charles Merrill, who died in Cornish were held at the Methodist church, Rev. H. D. Knowles officiating. Mr. Merrill left a wife and two small children. A. P. Cobb had charge of the services and the burial was in the new cemetery.

A Clearing House for Charity.

Some reasons for this conviction are: 1. Many who are able and want to give are not in position to know where assistance will count for most. They have not the time to look into the merits of particular cases.

2. Giving aid under such conditions results in duplication of gifts. A case Thanksgiving day, a family were provided with four different dinners. In another instance it was found that a family with a good weekly income was being helped by several organizations, so one of which knew that the others were helping.

3. Promising giving develops a spirit of deception in the recipient, without meeting the real needs of the worthy poor.

In a neighboring city, an investigation of twenty cases where application for aid was made, revealed the fact that only two were worthy of assistance.

4. It is better for everyone who is able to help oneself.

The above are facts with many more that I might give.

Maine Veterans Decrease.

The soldiers of the Civil war are rapidly thinning out and the Maine Grand Army posts are more slimly attended and some of the smaller ones no longer hold their meetings. The memorial exercises are now largely conducted by the corps of women and citizens.

In Oxford county four places have been united in these memorial exercises this year. These are Waterford, Albany, Stoneham and North Waterford, and the services will be held at the last named place. The committee has secured L. C. Bateman of Auburn to deliver the oration and a fine orchestra has also been secured.

The citizens are all taking hold and the people will come from all the different surrounding places and make it a general memorial occasion. The trend of the times is to make this day an occasion to pay tribute to all the dead and for this reason it will grow in importance from year to year. It is a beautiful custom that will never die.

Early Springtime.

It is springtime. Once more all the world awakes from its winter sleep; down the hillsides the rills are flowing to join the mighty deep; and the gentle breezes blow over the meadows once more free from snow; in the tree tops the birds sweetly sing, "This is spring."

Down beside the brook the pussy willows are peeping out, and nodding in the breeze to the budding maple trees; on the mossy ground Mayflowers are slyly showing, soon their perfume will float on the gentle breeze; soon happy children will about with glee, "This is spring," as they gather the blossoms so free on the hillside.

The grass is growing green, soon the little lambkins will be playing all the sunny day, all the world seems to say, "Oh happy happy day."

My April Child.

Thy natal month's a type so true
Of what life has in store for you,
All thy chagrel moods and ways
Show the caprice of April days.
Gleams of merry sunshine, chase
Frowns and shadows from thy face;
Sunny laughter, sudden tears,
Tells of hope and joy and fear.
The fickle moods, the smiles and tears,
Picture forth the coming years.
So fickle light, and shadows dark,
Milestones in thy life will mark.
Thy horizon, azure, fair and clear,
Clouds with sudden burst of fear.
Thy songs, half complaint, half praise,
Shadow forth the April days.
Inconstant as the April days,
Who can forecast thy ways and ways
On thy investments, contrition deep,
To rally smiles, then sadly weep.
If mother love might shield and guide
No evil should your path betide.
But only this can I hope for thee,
To be as victor, crowned in Immortality.

Keep an Eye on Villa.

Old Villa may make protest that he loves his Uncle Sam,
He may say he's standing with us and may make all due salams,
He may howl against Huxley and say he's knocked sky high,
But don't trust him too fully, just watch him wink his eye.
Though he's shaking hands with our men and falling on their necks,
Though he says he'll do the bidding when Wilson simply beck,
He's a Greaser like the rest of 'em, don't let that fact get by,
And so you just smile back at him, but watch him wink his eye.
He may say he's standing with us in our zeal for common right,
He may say he'll sit down softly while we keep up the fight,
He may weep with seeming pleasure with a tear and then a sigh,
But though one optic has a tear, just watch the other eye.

Garden in Springtime.

Just as early in the spring as you are able the first is out of the ground is the time to dig your flower beds and borders, and, as what is worth doing at all is worth doing at all well, you should give to your flower beds all the time and work they require.

Many fall in having the results they should have, owing to an error either in the proper preparation of the soil or in the location of the bed. One cannot be too careful in the location of a flower bed. Never attempt to grow flowering plants in a location where they cannot have sunlight. Do not plant in shade or near large trees, as the plants will draw out long and struggling and fall over in search of sunlight in a few weeks.

It is well to always renew a large part of the earth in your flower beds each year by taking out enough of the old earth, say to an inch below the level of the grass and replacing with good loam from the garden or compost pile.

If you have it handy, it is beneficial to add some well-rotted manure. In making your beds and borders never mound them up high. It is neither necessary nor in good taste. In many instances you will find flower beds made into a mound several feet high, and the bottom edge for a height of eight inches covered with soil. This mounding is absolutely no use and is seldom kept in order, being so situated that you cannot keep it out with any other mower than a sickle, and what with flowers falling over and the grass growing up through them it is all very unsightly.

Before you plant your flowers always pulverize the soil thoroughly. If it is so poorly dug that you have to use a trowel in planting dig it over again. Plants will never thrive in hard ground. If your beds have been dug for some time and become settled, dig again and loosen thoroughly just before planting. You can plant easier and the plants will be better for it. When planting wet your flowers; do not water them unless the soil is very dry. The better plan is to soak the plants well with water before planting.

Do not be alarmed if your plants wilt a little for a few days after planting. They are apt to do this when first taken from the house to the open air, but they soon become acclimated and start to grow.

Children's Column.

Bethel, April 28, 1914.

DEAR EDITOR:—My school is keeping and my teachers make it a point to write for our paper when the Editor has kindly asked us? I study history, geography, spelling, writing, reading, grammar and the Lord's prayer. I have a black and white dog that came here and we feed it and we do not know where it came from. I will send you some verses from "Memory Gems."

We should lay up in our minds a store of goodly thoughts in well-wrought words and which should be a living treasure of knowledge, always with us, and from which, at various times and amidst all the shifting of circumstances we might be sure of drawing some comfort, guidance and sympathy.

Father, we thank Thee for the night
And for the pleasant morning light,
For rest and food and loving care,
And all that makes the world so fair,
Help us to do the things we should,
To be to others kind and good
In all we do, in all we say,
To grow more loving every day.

Whitewash.
At this time of the year a great many are thinking of cleaning up and the use of whitewash on the farm receives consideration. The following is the recipe for making whitewash given by the United States Department of Agriculture:
Slake half a bushel of unslaked lime with boiling water, keeping it covered during the process. Strain it and add a peck of salt dissolved in warm water, 3 pounds of ground rice put in boiling water and boiled to a thin paste, half a pound of Spanish whiting and a pound of clear glue dissolved in warm water. Mix these well together and let the mixture stand for several days. Keep the wash thus prepared in a kettle or portable furnace, and use as you put it on as hot as possible with painters' or whitewash brushes.

Damage by Freshet.

Much damage by the storm is reported from Long lake in Harrison, where the ice went out April 22, the most of the orange buds between Hara and Naples. Buildings at Camp Kooka, a boys' resort, were washed off shore, and boat-houses were damaged about $1,000. Two houses owned by W. W. Stevens were moved from their foundation. E. A. Hill estimated the damage to his property at $300, and the cellar of Dr. J. P. Blake's house was flooded.

NEW AUTOMOBILE TIRE.

Combination of Solid and Pneumatic With Extra Heavy Tread.

A new tire has made its appearance, which is a sort of combination of solid and pneumatic. It is not unlike the ordinary tire, for which it can be substituted without alteration in existing standard tire rims. Its principal point of difference lies in its enormously thickened tread and in the unusual manner in which the tread is formed, says the Scientific American. The tread itself is four or five times as thick as the normal tread, and formed in it there are a number of very deep indentations alternating on either side and overlapping slightly at the center of the tread. Between these indentations, at the sides, there are other scooped out places, the purpose of which is to assist in the radiation of natural heat. By means of the deep indentations it is pointed out that the principal drawback to the solid tire, barring its lack of resiliency, of course, is eliminated.

This drawback, it may be explained, is due to the fact that the weight of the car and its progression force a ridge or wave of rubber around the tire just in front of the point of contact between the tire and the road, the net result being that the tread soon loosens itself from the base and comes away. The indentations, it is claimed, do away with the travel of this wave by permitting distortion to take place and allowing for the return of the rubber to its natural form. Incidentally their edges provide a means for the tire to bite its way through mud, water and snow, an advantage which is of great importance. Consequently the tire is practically nonskid.

The thickness of the tread obviously accounts for the fact that the tire is more than ordinarily resistant to punctures and blowouts, and so confident are the makers that the tire will not only stand up in service, but will stand up an unusually long time to boot, that they unreservedly guarantee it for 5,000 miles, 1,500 more than the manufacturer of ordinary tires. Despite the heavier tread of the tire, which is used with the ordinary inner tube, its weight averages only about 10 per cent more than the weight of the orthodox tire.

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

THE PARKING STRIP FOR FLOWER BEDS.

A Dusty Street May Be Made a Bower of Bloom.

Often do we hear the complaint, "If we only had room for growing flowers!" made by those unfortunate whose homes are crowded on the all too small city lot. Yet it seldom occurs to them to utilize the parking strip for flower beds, thereby gratifying their own desires and at the same time making the dusty city streets a veritable bower of bloom. Most of us consider that we have reached the limit of possibilities when we have sown the space bordering the pavement with grass seed and set out a tree.

With the sprouting of the first green blades our troubles begin. Thoughtless pedestrians have no inclination to "keep off the grass," especially where cutting crosswise will save a few steps. Also careless drivers are prone to

He gave the opening address on the foundation of the order at the little tavern in Baltimore, on April 26th 1819, giving as much of interest in statistics regarding the works wrought by the brothers. A piano solo followed by an address by Rev. J. H. Little, who told us of the founding of the Rebekahs in 1851, weaving into his story enough of interest to hold the close attention of the company of 125 or more.

HOW CIVIC WORK WAS STARTED BY A MOTHER.

The Welfare of Her Own Children Was the Incentive.

The welfare of her own children started an Indiana mother in civic effort and eventually drew her out of her own home to lead a victorious struggle for a better housing law for the whole state. Mrs. Albion Bacon tells in the Survey how it all began.

"Going home with my little girls skipping at each side of me, I surveyed the school grounds. They were covered with cinders and broken rock.

"This is what roughs up our shoes so and skins our knees when we fall down," said one of the children.

"And see here," exclaimed the other, "what the boys throw at each other."

"It was a pile of decayed vegetables, chicken heads and other garbage at the back of a grocery opposite the school yard."

"That afternoon I had a long talk with some of the leaders of the Civic Improvement association, whose children went to the same school. A few days later a small procession composed of civic improvement leaders and other young mothers beside myself walked into the city building and up to the office of the city attorney."

"If the city attorney should confirm our hope that the title of the city was clear to the old canal bed which formed the site of the school building in question there would be a large tract available for playground purposes."

There was some discussion, in which the ladies took an animated part. I had expected to remain in the background, but with some surprise and confusion I found myself taking a hand in the argument.

"It was like a plunge through ice into freezing water. But—the ice was broken, and I was initiated into civic work! We were given slight encouragement and left the city building, disappointed, to plan the next step."

After much further effort and agitation, in which I was not able to take part, the matter came to a definite settlement, a goodly tract was added to the school grounds and the whole fenced in and improved. And so our effort bore late fruit."

FOR COMMUNITY MUSIC.
Wisconsin State University Plans to Assist Communities.

Community music throughout Wisconsin is to be stimulated through systematic effort recently organized by the state university. A bulletin of the extension department of the university calls attention to activities showing how music is becoming popularized throughout the United States.

The bulletin instances a "Pennsylvania Oberammergau" at Bethlehem, where a local choir gives "what are considered to be the finest presentations of Bach's work in this country," and a "Swedish Rindeth in Kansas," at the town of Lindborg.

A particularly interesting account is given of the "outdoor sing" at Anoka, Minn., the idea of the supervisor of music in the Minneapolis schools, which he carried out at practically no expense. He mounted a box and led a band and 5,000 people, who came from neighboring villages, in the familiar old songs which every one knows and loves.

Efforts which have been made to control street music are also mentioned. In some cities hand organs are supplied with music for the folk dances which children learn in the schools. In Boston street instruments must have their tunes censored before they are given licenses.

The bulletin announces how the university, through its extension division, will assist any community in the state.

It plans to rent at low cost music for choruses, bands and orchestras, and it is now planning for "a course in music appreciation, consisting of rolls for mechanical piano players and disks for phonographs, together with a series of lectures or studies." This material will be sent out in a way similar to that in which traveling sets of books or clippings are now put at the disposal of localities.

The department will further assist in the forming of entertainment courses. Teachers of music will be provided for communities, and the plan will involve circuits of several neighboring small communities, each of which may thus obtain part of the service of a well equipped musician.

Better Street Signs.
A correspondent sends the following excellent suggestions: If the names of all streets were stenciled in the cement when sidewalks are laid it would be a great blessing. The names should be placed on all four corners. At least the work should begin at once with all new sidewalks. This goes away with all temporary signs or posts or on buildings. It is permanent and does away with the periodic renewal and readjustment of signs. Since the names would be on all corners they would be in plain sight and do away with the expert divination now frequently necessary to find the signs.

Another suggestion is that the numbers in each block can be indicated in the same way. Six hundred on one corner shows at once which side is even and which way the numbers are higher than 600 and which way they are lower. Across the street 601 tells the whole story. This is a great convenience and very easy to secure.

War with Mexico (of this number 20,354 were regulars and the remainder militia and volunteers. War began April 24, 1846, ended July 4, 1848) 1846-1848, 112,230. Apache-Navajo and Utah War, 1849-1855, 2,501. Seminole Indian War, 1856-1858, 3,687. Civil War, 1861-1865, 2,772,408. Spanish-American War, April-December, 1898, 274,717. Philippine insurrection, 1899-1900, 60,000. A historical coincidence was discovered here in that the Atlantic fleet was due to reach Tampico on the 16th anniversary of the declaration of war with Spain, April 21, 1898. The Spanish War was actually declared by passage of a joint resolution in Congress, April 25, but the declaration was antedated to be of effect on April 21—Congress declaring that war had existed since the 21st, when President McKinley's ultimatum to Spain was rejected. It was also noted that the Revolutionary War began April 19; the Mexican War April 24, and the Civil War on April 14.

Roscoe Mayberry and family are still in confinement, due to scarlet fever. Roscoe is very much improved. His daughter, Marjorie, is quite sick with the fever. She was very poorly and has been sick in bed nearly all winter with whooping cough and bronchitis and much interest is being felt for her. Peter Jordan's chimney burned out giving them quite a fright. The sparks set fire to the roof and had it not been for Elwood Thorne's help, who was passing at the time, without doubt the building would have burned to the ground. The wind was blowing a gale to say the least. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan has just moved back into their home, having spent the winter in the village; also Mrs. Jewett and daughters had moved into their tent.

Changing One's Mind.

"We have always called it the parlor, and I don't see why we should change and call it the living room. It would sound ridiculous and affected." "Not a bit more ridiculous than to continue to call it the parlor just because you always have." You have changed your idea of furnishing and of entertaining; you used to keep this room always closed except on formal occasions. All that has gradually given place to something different; is it inconsistent to let the name be different?" This and similar arguments take place everywhere and often, the younger generation pleading for change, the older generation clinging to conservatism. Sometimes the older generation has good and logical reason for believing in the present policy, but often it has no reason whatever, but only a fear of anything different. This fear embraces the apprehension lest "people think one queer," the terror lest the innovation cause disfavor, or be a mistake and the habit of inflexibility. The fear of what people may think is one of the basest of human emotions. In the first place, although gossips do a great deal of talking they do comparatively little thinking. Someone happens to say the obvious thing, and everyone else repeats it, but that is no custom; it is surely not worth considering nor strong enough to alter any determination we may have formulated ourselves. We people may say as much as it may be as people as bad as our imaginations picture it, because most people are engrossed in their own affairs, and the fact that we are consistent or inconsistent in some minor detail, does not really disturb them in the least. And the fear lest the new idea prove wrong and demand retraction should not be appalling. What if a mistake is made? It can be rectified and the world will jog along very much as usual. "Don't worry when you stumble," says a proverb. A woman is about the only thing that can't fall down." The new thing is often worth trying, and the only way to find out whether it is or is not is to try it. Inflexibility of habit, which sometimes makes advancing years, is as deplorable as the stiffening of bones and the withering of flesh. We can never be called old, nor think of ourselves as old, so long as we keep our minds open and our customs elastic. To change one's mind is a sign that one has a mind to change. Our friends forget the inconsistencies of progress, but they do not forget the warm, vital nature which is only maintained by growth, which is always changing, and usually progressing. Initiative should not be the prerogative of youth, nor courage the sign manual of ignorance. Middle age has greater power for initiative and better, more plentiful fuel to feed the fire of courage. Why be afraid of change? And why forget that change comes only through a receptive mind?

PORTER.

Mr. Eliza Garland is very lame. Daniel Fox is having a garage built to house his auto. Roscoe Garland has been helping Moses J. Chapman with his farm work. We understand that Perley Day intends to live on the home farm this summer. Curtis Chapman, with the help of others, is making some needed repairs on the road. Orion Black has been having a few repairs on his barn, which greatly improve the looks of the buildings. Curtis Chapman has received a fine horse from Massachusetts. This horse has been on the city fire department but as the auto trucks are taking the place of horses he was no longer needed.

BUCKFIELD.

Mrs. Bert Thomas is to care for Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Ada Shaw's mother. Mrs. Maggie Jordan is caring for Mrs. Emily Shaw. Clarence Caswell returned home from Florida, Thursday. Saturday, the Buckfields played ball against Mechanic Falls; score, 10 to 2 in favor of Buckfield. Maine in U. S. Army and Navy.

Maine is well represented in the army and navy at this time, with 326 Maine born enlisted men in the navy and 282 who enlisted in this State, born elsewhere. These have given Maine as the State of their birth in their enlistment papers. Not all enlisted men, however, join the service in various instances by enlisting in other states. Many enlist without being credited to any state and it is impossible to determine if any Maine men are included in this list. Maine men by birth to the number of 40 are in the army, commissioned officers and 50 have been appointed from this State also born elsewhere. There are no records in the war department compiled to show either enlisted or commissioned men from different states in the two department and the records, usually exhaustive and complete, do not deal with this phase of the service. But two survivors of the Mexican War of 1846-7 remain in this State although hundreds served in that conflict nearly 70 years ago.

A very successful affair. "Fly swifter round ye wheels of time and bring the welcome day." The evening of May 7, which is next week, Thursday, will witness the production of "The Old Folks' Concert" at ye Grange hall. Friends from ye neighboring village will assist in ye chorus of upwards to 40 voices under ye director, Mrs. J. F. Grover. Beside the chorus numbers the following persons will render concerted numbers and songs: Franklin Grange quartet; West Paris Grange quartet, with Ella Z. Berry as soprano; male quartet; Mrs. John F. Marshall, Sisters Bertha George, Abbie Marshall, Edith Cushman, Inez Sawyer, and Worthey Lecturer, Sadie Cummings. The question "Is an Allowance to the Wife Advisable in the Home?" was discussed by all present and good things were said on both sides.

A MISTAKEN IDEA

There are some people who still resort to drugged pills or alcoholic syrrups to overcome colds, nervousness or general debility, and who know that the pure, unadulterated, nourishment in Scott's Emulsion is eminently better, but refrain from taking it because they fear it may lead to excessive fat or obesity. This is a mistaken idea, because Scott's Emulsion first strengthens the body before making flesh. Its blood-forming properties aid nature to throw off sickness by building health from its very source, and flesh is formed only by its continued use. Avoid alcoholic substitutes for SCOTT'S.

No Interest Without Principal.

Are You Saving Money? Do You Want Some Practical Help In Doing So?

To have interest it is necessary to have principal and to have principal you must save money out of your income. The very best way to save out of your income is to itemize everything and have a record of receipts and expenditures. Then you will know where to cut expense and can save in a practical way. An easy, safe and convenient way to keep this itemized list of receipts and expenditures is a bank account with this strong National Bank. The stub of your check book shows the receipts and payments and the statement of your account sent to you at the end of each month contains your cancelled checks which are receipts from the parties to whom you gave the checks.

A bank account with this strong National Bank is a practical help toward saving your money.

Chimney Fires.

Chimney fires in Maine last year caused a damage to property of approximately $400,000. This fact based on figures tabulated in the office of the State Insurance Commissioner, emphasizes the necessity of a thorough inspection of all chimneys and flues. This inspection is now being urged upon the people of Maine as a part of Fire Prevention Day, Thursday, April 30.

An inspection on Fire Prevention Day will disclose unsafe conditions if they exist and will permit repairs in time to prevent future fire. This inspection should be made particularly in the attic and care should be taken to see that no inflammable material is allowed to remain near the chimney. You owe it to your family and to the community to make such an inspection. If this is not done on Fire Prevention Day, do it soon after.

Use Caution in Your Friendship.

There is a lot said about the men a girl chooses for her friends and associates, but, believe me, your women friends are just as important—perhaps more so. Every girl who goes out to earn her living is thrown with other girls who come from many different environments and have all sorts of ideas as to the way of life. If you get drawn into an intimacy with a girl who looks fast, who is careless in her manners and speech, who paints and overdresses, you are going to be judged by her.

You girls who are just beginning in business can't be too careful in choosing your girl companions. Often you admire some girl who has been working longer than you and appears very clever and knowing. Maybe she talks and acts in a way you haven't been used to, but you think it is you who is wrong, you who have stiff silly notions—not she who is ill-mannered or reckless.

Well, it isn't you who are wrong. The quiet, well-bred girl is not so easy to know as the opposite type. Nothing worth while is so easy as what isn't worth while. But take your time. Don't rush into friendships that you may soon regret and cannot escape from without a sense of meanness.

Remember, too, that the men most worth meeting are those who prefer the society of the best type of girls. If you make good friends of two or three really delightful women, you are going in time to meet their families, they live at home, or their circle of friends if they live by themselves. But if you rush about with loud looking girls whose ideas of having a good time are to make a lot of noise in every way possible, the nicer women will leave you strictly alone.

It isn't a question of money, but of type, of brains, of feelings, and ideals. It has been said that we are made by our friends—and for us that is particularly true of our women friends.

How Paint.

The first cost of a good job of painting is $50 (average size, of course). The first cost of a second or third or fourth rate job, $55 to $100.

The wear is likewise. The better you paint, of course, the longer it wears. And the more you pay for your job, the shorter it wears!

Ask Any Sickie Smoker Why

he sticks to Sickie plug and slices off each pipeful as he needs it, when he could get tobacco already cut up, in packages. He'll tell you, "because the Sickie way is the only way to get fresh tobacco, that smokes cool and sweet, and doesn't bite the tongue." He knows.

Tobacco that is cut up at the factory gets dried up on its way to you. Result—it burns fast and hot, and "bites." When you cut your own tobacco off the Sickie plug, you are well repaid for a minute's work by fresh tobacco—because all the flavor and moisture are pressed into the plug and held in by the natural leaf wrapper.

Get a plug of Sickie at your dealer's today. Notice how much more tobacco you get, when you don't have to pay for a package.

HANOVER.

John Clark Saunders.
In the early morning of Easter Sunday, John Clark Saunders of Hanover passed quietly away after weeks of painful illness.

He was born December 27th, 1835, one of two sons of Addison and Sally (Roberts) Saunders. His boyhood was spent on the hillside farm where his grandfather had lived, where on the 19th, of December 1809, his own father had been born, and which is still known as the "Old Saunders place." After his marriage with Angella Rowe, which occurred May 10th, 1859, he made his home in the new place on the main road where he lived happily for fifty years, or until the death of his wife, April 29, 1909. Since that time he has been one of the home circle of his son, Cheslie, who had secured the adjoining farm.

Mr. Saunders has been a man of sterling character, standing high in the esteem of his neighbors and business associates, and commanding the affection of a wide circle of friends. Habits of industry and thrift united with good sense have won for him a share of business success, but the richest heritage he leaves is in the love and respect inspired by his upright Christian character.

He had at times served his town as selectman, and was Chaplain of Bear River Grange. For many years he has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and actively interested in its worship.

His four children all survive him, together with ten grandchildren and three great grandchildren. The children are: Addison R. of Lawrence, Mass.; Mrs. M. J. Swain of Rumford; Mrs. John D. Kimball of Poland; and Cheslie F. of Hanover.

The interment is in the Hanover Cemetery, near his late home.

We make cash registers for 286 kinds of businesses.

The N. C. R. Receipt Benefits the Patrons of Stores in 10 Ways:

1. It prevents customers from being overcharged.
2. It insures credit for all money paid on account.
3. It prevents paying the same bill twice.
4. It shows which clerk made the sale.
5. It stops disputes with clerks.
6. It prevents mistakes in change.
7. It enables customers to get goods and change quickly.
8. When the customer gets home, it tells how the money was spent.
9. It proves where goods were purchased if exchange is desired.
10. It protects servants and children against temptation and unjust suspicion.

If customers of stores knew of these 10 benefits, they would demand N. C. R. receipts for all money paid at stores.

National Cash Registers print many different kinds of receipts.

They are a necessity wherever money transactions take place.

Considering what they do, National Cash Registers are the lowest priced machines sold in the world.

SMOTHERING SPELLS

Sour Stomach, Heart Burn

In October, 1910, we received a letter from Mrs. Hall, from which we make the following extracts:

"About twelve years ago my health began to fail. I couldn't eat anything without suffering for it. I had heart burn, sour stomach, palpitation of the heart, smothering spells, pains in my sides and back. In fact, I suffered all over, and a cough almost like consumption. Doctors failed to relieve me; in fact, they didn't seem to know what ailed me. I continued to grow worse until I was able to sit up only a part of the time. I had almost lost all hopes of ever being any better."

"But one day some one threw some books in at my door. I read them and found them to be Peruna books. They described my feeling so truly I sent at once and got a bottle and began taking it. You pronounced my ailment systemic catarrh, and gave me some advice."

"When I had taken two and one-half bottles I began to eat without suffering. I continued to improve."

"When I had taken eight I was like a new person. That was nine years ago."

"I think Peruna the greatest family remedy there is, for so many ailments are due to catarrhal trouble. I would advise any one afflicted with catarrh to take Peruna and I am sure it will leave."

In the Revised "Tills of Life" we have many similar testimonials which should interest sick people everywhere. Sent free by the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

People who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

Dixfield is rejoicing again over the business outlook, from the fact of the transaction which was consummated last week; that of the transferring of the Forster Manufacturing Co.'s footpick mills, both here and at Oakland, with timber land, to J. S. Harlow and other Dixfield parties. It is understood now that instead of a new mill being built there for novelty works the Forster pick mill will be used for that purpose and other enterprises be added as time will reveal.

Oxford Co. Teachers' Convention.

A very interesting and profitable session of the Oxford County Teachers' Association was held at South Paris, Friday. A special train from Rumford brought teachers from the eastern part of the county to Mechanic Falls and then came up on the morning train.

The meeting was called to order at 11 o'clock by the president, L. W. Blaisdell, of Canton. A solo was rendered by Mary A. Mealand of Norway, prayer offered by Rev. A. T. McWhorter of South Paris and a brief welcome was extended by Arthur E. Forbes. The secretary's report was given by Burr F. Jones, which showed the receipts of $37.50 during the year with no disbursements.

L. S. Andrews, M. D., of Lewiston gave an address on The Conservation of Vision. He stated that the greatest part of a program of education undertaken by the American Medical Association to show people what they should do and what they should not do with their eyes. He emphasized the fact that most of the cases of eye disease are preventable and that any trouble with the eyes which cause redness or discharge should receive attention, and cautioned against the use for patent medicines.

Professor Arthur J. Jones of the University of Maine spoke on the topic of "What a Teacher Can Do to Improve His Own Efficiency."

Dinner was served in the dining room of the Grange Hall by the Ladies' Aid of the Baptist church and the school patronized. A part of the afternoon program was at the High school building in three departments in different rooms with the following program:

Rural School Department.
 Chairman, Supt. W. S. McNamara, Mexico.
 The daily program.
 Lillian I. Lincoln, Farmington State Normal School.
 Teaching exercise in fourth grade reading.
 L. S. Andrews, M. D., of Lewiston.
 Agriculture in rural schools.
 L. S. Andrews, M. D., of Lewiston.
 Elementary School Department.
 Chairman, Supt. A. C. Morrill, Norway.
 Two-part about fifth grade pupils.
 Correlation of courses in geography.
 Helen Cole, Norway.

 Sound suggestions about teaching geometry.
 Principal J. L. Dyer, Oxford.

 Principal S. R. Oldham, Maine Central Institute.
 Discussion.
 Opened by Principal C. L. Smith, Rumford.

After the department session the meeting was held at the Grange Hall with an address given by Frank W. Wright of Cambridge on The Science and Sentiment of Education. He spoke particularly of the rural school problem. He claimed that a rural school had failed in its work if it did not turn its results back into the community where it is, rather than sending them to the city. The body of rural school teachers is necessary; there is also a need of better rural school buildings.

A question box was conducted by Principal W. G. Mallett, of the Farmington school. Superintendents served in the dining hall by the Mount Pleasant Rebekah Lodge.

The evening session was opened with music by the Norway High school orchestra. Among the other numbers of the program was a violin solo by Clara Shepard and selections by South Paris male quartet composed of L. S. Sessions, Howard W. Shaw, Burr F. Jones and Fred E. Hall. Professor William H. Eastburne of the Eastern department at Bates College was the speaker of the evening and spoke on "Rambles in Germany," giving a fine idea and information regarding Germany which was highly enjoyed by teachers and citizens. The committee and officers appointed are as follows:

Diogenes Says—

“AH! THAT NYAL'S FACE CREAM SOAP IS FINE”

NO ARGUMENT

Yes, we admit it! NYAL'S FACE CREAM SOAP is the best that is. No need to have a blotchy, pimply complexion any longer. If you really want a good complexion, come to our store and buy a cake of NYAL'S FACE CREAM SOAP. It keeps the pores free from all foreign matter and at the same time "tones up" the skin itself. NYAL'S FACE CREAM SOAP is just the thing for the tired, tender face—soothing, cooling and refreshing! It lathers freely in all kinds of water. Use it once and you'll wonder how you ever got along without it.

When it comes to a complete line of Drugs and Sundries—Our store leads. No drugs but the very best are placed on our shelves. And you need never fear that your prescriptions will be "bungled," because we are very careful—check every ingredient over, time after time, before compounding. Safety First—is a mighty good slogan. We believe in it with all our heart.
